

Define incremental cash flow:

* Incremental cash flow is the additional operating cash flow that an organization receives from taking on a new project cash flow that a company acquires when it takes on a new project. Cash flow that occurs in the future and are incremental. Cash flow is the cash inflow or amount of money, a new project, product investment.

* Incremental cash flow a project, Revenue, Expense Initial cash outlay.

* Incremental cash flow does not include cash receipts or debt from other parts of your business. It only includes the money made and spent on a specific project. It also does not include sunk cost. Opportunity cost.

Defining